What's fizzy, frothy, and provides the perfect amount of sweetness when the craving strikes? That's right, we're talking about Moscato. Made from the Muscat family of grapes, Moscato (known as Moscatel in Spain) has a flavor profile that ranges all over the spectrum, from bone dry to syrupy sweet.

However, the Moscatos that we Americans are most accustomed to are those light, effervescent bottles brimming with sweet sparkles. Despite the negative hype, the wine is actually more loved than you might think. According to Wine Searcher, the year-to-date figure for Moscato searches stands at 273,261, while Prosecco stands at a significantly lower 128,615. That's a ton of demand!

Not sure where to start? Grab a bottle of one of the top 10 Moscatos in the world according to Wine Searcher, from the list below!

8. CASTELLO DEL POGGIO MOSCATO

This Zonin-owned brand's grapes come from Lombardy, east of Piedmont. Serve chilled with Italian cookies for ultimate enjoyment!

5. ZONIN PRIMO AMORE MOSCATO

Unlike most Italian Moscatos, Zonin's bottling comes from the warmer southern region of Puglia. While most Moscatos sit at about 5% ABV, Zonin's sits at a slightly higher 7% ABV. Hey, that 2% makes a difference on those occasional rough days at work!
